

24 years after columbus arrived in America, Juan Díaz de Solís, the Spanish expeditionary discovered Uruguayan territory. In 1617, the governor Fernando Arias de Saavedra, realizes that the real richness of this region was the abundant natural prairies and the inexhaustible water supply. This gave rise to extraordinary cattle and sheep farming development. The first cows and sheep were introduced to Uruguay at that time and rapidly flourished to become one of the world"s most prosperous cattle breeding economies, reaching 9 million cows and 25 million sheep by the year 1990. The population of Uruguay is 3 million, inhabiting a territory of 176.214km2

SOME FACTS OF URUGUAY:

Name of the country: Repùblica Oriental del Uruquay

Capital: Montevideo

Borders: 579 km with Argentina, 985 km with

Brasil, 660 beaches.

Highest mountain. 514 meter (Cerro Catedral)

Area: 176215 km2

Country's population: 3.399.239, from which

1.750.100 are in Montevideo.

Language: Spanish

Religion: 66% catholics, 2% protestant, 1%

jews, others 31%

Politics: Constitutional Republic Country is divided into 19 departments

President: Dr. Tabare Vazquez

Coin: Uruguayan peso

Main exportations: (milk, meta, wool, rice, leather)

Main importations: (machines, chimics, cars, oil)

Main business partners: Brasil, Argentina, United States, Germany, Italy and Venezuela

Telephone: to call to Uruguay you have to dial 00 598 + city 2(Montevideo).

Weather: Uruguay doesn't have extreme climates as very cold or very hot. We could call a typical oceanique temperate weather. The hottest weather is in January and the coldes is july. Be prepared for quick changes of weather.

Seasons: spring and autumn are really nice time to visit Uruguay. Summer, if you are happy to swet a little, it can be very nice too. Winter is not icy or snowy, in Uruguay never snows, only in mid july, you can see ice on top of the grass.

Security: even at Montevideo, there are crimes and thiefs, it is one of the safest countries in South America.

Water: you can drink it any where from the tab